Non-Verbal Reasoning Practice Test

PAK Army, PAK Navy and PAF use psychometric testing in their recruitment process, with a non-verbal reasoning test included.

The style of the following test is based on the Inductive Reasoning and Diagrammatic Reasoning tests available on the www.pakarmyguide.com

In order to ensure that a variety of typical question contexts were included, the following sources were also accessed:

This test comprises 85 questions and you have 35 minutes to complete it.

This test includes four styles of question:

- Completing a sequence: you are given a sequence of images which follows a logical pattern. You have to identify which option completes the given sequence.
- Identifying the 'odd one out': you are given a set of images for which all but one have a common feature. You have to identify the image which is the 'odd one out'.
- Identifying common features: you are given two sets of images (Set A and Set B). Each set has a unique common feature. You are given a further image and have to decide which of the two sets, if either, it belongs to.
- Applying operations: a given operation (or operations) is applied to an input figure to produce an output figure. You have to identify which option completes the given system.
